

SPEAK, EVEN IF YOUR VOICE SHAKES

Remy Grunden copyright 2018

There will be days that you will regret
There will be things that you wish you never said
Some say life is just an easy road
Some say do not believe all that your told

You may be scared of all their opinions
You may be scared of the choices that they make
But if the world beneath you starts to quiver and quake
Well, speak, even if your voice shakes

There just may be a person in your life
Who only seems to cause you fear and strife
And if that's the case, don't put on a brave face
And tell everybody you're alright

You may be scared of all their opinions
You may be scared of the choices that they make
But if the world beneath you starts to quiver and quake
Well, speak, even if your voice shakes

There will be days that you will regret
There will be things that you wish you never said
But if the world beneath you starts to quiver and quake
Well, speak, even if your voice shakes

You may be scared of all their opinions
You may be scared of the choices that they make
But if the world beneath you starts to quiver and quake
Then, speak, even if your voice shakes