

Nine – Peiton Backhouse

They told me just tell the truth
They asked me why I didn't just leave the room
They told me I should've fought him off
But I was only nine years old

They told me I am the one to blame
They told me he's good and I'm just fake
They told me I must've been all wrong
And I was only nine years old

Don't blame it on my private school dress
Don't tell me these memories must be repressed
Don't say I should've said something at the time
Don't you remember? I was nine

They told me maybe it was all a dream
They told me if it happened it would've been seen
They told me I was angry, and my heart was cold
But I was only nine years old

They told me he had no need for regret
They told me to forgive and forget
He told me don't you dare to tell a soul
And I was only nine years old

Don't blame it on my private school dress
Don't tell me these memories must be repressed
Don't say I should've said something at the time
Don't you remember? I was nine

Yeah, don't you remember? I was nine
